- Novel drug discovery and development pathways.
- Clinical and translational research in infectious and non-communicable diseases.
- Advances in pharmaceutical technology and nanomedicine.
- Public health interventions and evidence-based approaches in healthcare delivery.

These contributions highlight the global and interdisciplinary nature of pharmaceutical and health sciences, reinforcing our mission to provide a platform for impactful research.

Looking Ahead-Research Priorities and Calls

As we move into 2025, AJPHS seeks to encourage submissions that address:

- Innovative drug discovery strategies, including biologics, monoclonal antibodies, and natural products.
- AI, digital health, and technology-driven solutions in pharmacy and healthcare.
- Interventions targeting antimicrobial resistance and emerging infectious diseases.
- Patient-centric healthcare, medical, nursing, and community health innovations.
- Systematic reviews and meta-analyses that

As we step into 2025, we extend our warmest greetings to our readers, authors, reviewers, and members of the Editorial and Advisory Boards of the Asian Journal of Pharmaceutical and Health Sciences (AJPHS). The growth and success of our journal are possible only because of your unwavering support, rigorous contributions, and commitment to advancing research in pharmaceutical and health sciences. We are especially grateful to our reviewers for their constructive feedback, and to our editorial team for ensuring the quality and integrity of the work we publish.

Reflections on the Past Year

The past year has been a period of steady progress for AJPHS. We received an encouraging number of submissions from across Asia and beyond, reflecting the growing recognition of our journal in the international research community. Research published in 2024 covered diverse themes such as:

synthesize current evidence and set research agendas.

We particularly welcome manuscripts addressing the challenges and opportunities in personalized medicine, oncology therapeutics, and global health equity. We hope that 2025 will bring together multidisciplinary perspectives, integrating basic science, clinical research, and healthcare practice. We invite authors to contribute to advancing discussions.

Closing Remarks

As AJPHS continues to grow, our commitment remains firm: to support high-quality, evidence-driven research in pharmaceutical and health sciences, and to foster dialogue that bridges research with practice. Ultimately, every article we publish is not only a contribution to academic scholarship but also a step toward improving patient care, advancing public health, and enhancing quality of life worldwide.

We thank our authors, reviewers, and readers for being part of the AJPHS community and look forward to an inspiring and productive year ahead.

Sincerely,

Dr. Dilip Chandrasekhar
